January 1, 2009]Sec. Instructions to all parties (a) Interrogation are written questions prepared by a party for an action sent to any other party in action answered under oath. The following interrogations are forms of interrogation approved for use in employment cases. For time limits, service requests for other parties, and other details, see the Civil Litigation Code Section and cases where those parts are understood. (b) These forms of interrogation do not change the applicable law relating to interrogation nor do it affect a party answering222s the right to assert any privilege or make any objection. (c) These forms of interrogation are designed to optionally be used by the parties in employment cases. (Separate interrogators, The Interrogatories227General Form (disc-001 form) and The Interrogatories227Limited Civil Cases (Economic Litigation) Form (form DISC-004) can also be used if available in employment cases.) (a) Insert the names of employees and employers towhom the interrogations applicable in the definitions in section4(d) and (e) below. (b) Check the box next to each question that you want the answering party to answer. Use carefully in choosing which interrogatories are applied to the case. (c) The questioning in section 211.0, Loss of income interrogation for the employer, should not be used until the employer has had a reasonable opportunity to conduct an investigation or discover the employee2222 negotiate and damages. (d) You must respond or provide an appropriate response to the interrogation toeach that has been examined below. (a) As a general rule, within 30 days after you are served with these interrogations, you must serve your answers to the requesting party and serve a copy of your feedback on all other parties for the action that has appeared. See Civil Litigation Code Section 2030.2602262030.270 for details. (b) Each answer must be complete and as simple as the reasonable information available to you license. If an interrogation cannot be answered completely, answer it to the extent possible. (c) If you do not have sufficient personal knowledge to respond in full to an interrogation, say so, but make a reasonable and goodwill effort to get the information by asking others or organizations unless the information is equally available to the requesting party. (d) Whenever an interrogation can be answered by exchanging with a document, the document may be attached as an exhibit to answer and be mentioned in response. If the document has multiple pages, refer to the page and the section can find the answer to the question. (e) (f) Whenever an address and phone number for the same person are requested in more than one interrogation, you are asked to provide them in replying only to the first interrogation requesting that information.
